Fishing tragedy

Columbia River claims lives of three Yakama fishers

On April 30 at 7:47 a.m., Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission Enforcement received a distress call from a capsized fishing boat. Rough river conditions swamped the boat near Celilo Village. The boat was returning to shore loaded with salmon the four-person Yakama crew had just pulled from their nets. One fisher, Johnny Jack, managed to reach the shore, however the other three fishers perished. Following Yakama
